De Montfort University:

The University is organized into four faculties: Art, Design, and Humanities; Business and Law; Health and Life Sciences; and Technology (comprising Computing Sciences and Engineering). There is also the Institute of Creative Technologies which researches the intersections of art, science, technology and multidisciplinary working.

Arts University Bournemouth:

Established in 1885 as a specialist institution, Arts University Bournemouth is a leading university offering high quality specialist education in art, design, media and performance across the creative industries

University for Creative Arts:

With a 160 years history of providing creative education in Europe, The University for the Creative Arts is a specialist art and design university in the south of England. The talented team of academics and technicians help students to become experts in their specialist creative field.

Istituto Marangoni:

Istituto Marangoni (Istituto Artistico dell'Abbigliamento Marangoni) was founded by Giulio Marangoni in 1935. Istituto Marangoni has never stopped believing in the value of training, constantly updating its programmes to ensure they are in line with Italian and international market needs. Istituto Marangoni continues to successfully 'teach fashion', as its founder wished. It also teaches design, which has many contact points and overlaps with the world of fashion: colour, materials and creativity.

Nottingham Trent University:

Nottingham Trent University (NTU) is a public research university in Nottingham, England. It was founded as a new university in 1992 from Trent Polytechnic (later Nottingham Polytechnic). Its roots go back to 1843 with the establishment of the Nottingham Government School of Design which still exists within the university today. It is the 13th largest university in the UK (out of 167) with 29,370 students split over four different campuses.

Coventry University:

Coventry University is a public research university in Coventry, England known as Lanchester Polytechnic until 1987, and Coventry Polytechnic until it was awarded university status in 1992. Its four faculties, which are made up of schools and departments, run around 300 undergraduate and postgraduate courses. Across the university there are 11 research centres which specialise in different fields, from transport to peace studies.

University of Derby:

The University of Derby (formerly Derby College of Art and Technology or simply Derby College) is a public university in the city of Derby, England. It traces its history back to the establishment of the Derby Diocesan Institution for the Training of Schoolmistresses in 1851 and gained university status in 1992 as one of the new universities.

Domus Academy:

Domus Academy is a living laboratory. An incubator of talents and a springboard for interdisciplinary adventures. A place where stellar careers are launched. At Domus Academy, we can help you become a protagonist in the highly competitive world of fashion and design. Offering one-year master's courses in a wide variety of design specializations, the school centers around its unique "learning by designing" methodology.

Polimoda:

Polimoda is known worldwide for its independence in thinking and action by combining business and design across all departments. Considered by the Business of Fashion as the best fashion institute in Italy, and amongst the top ten in the world, Polimoda balances the know-how of Italian design and production with an international vision.
