NUUTJOB

The original idea for Nuutjob came from noticing the men around us who are struggling to find a worthy solution to maintain good hygiene. This was explained by the fact that male hygiene is less discussed. "When it comes to intimate hygiene products, women have a lot of options." This is not the case for men, who also do not openly discuss it. As a result, we discovered a market gap there." The business idea came during the 2020 lockdown, and it took about a year to conduct extensive research and test the products. "We bootstrapped the business with an initial investment of around Rs 5 lakh and plan to launch our products online in July 2021. Then, after a few months, Shark Tank came along and completely changed our lives.
