Area of Specialization

Direction & Screenplay

Specializing in "Direction & Screenplay" at UIFM offers an in-depth journey into the heart of storytelling and visual realization, encompassing a broad curriculum that ranges from foundational scriptwriting and directing techniques to advanced studies in virtual reality and feature film creation. This program is designed to mold students into versatile directors and screenwriters, proficient across a spectrum of media from traditional cinema to cutting-edge OTT platforms, by integrating hands-on workshops, exploration of various narrative styles, and the latest in media laws and technology. With a focus on cultivating creativity, technical skills, and cultural sensitivity, UIFM prepares its students for a thriving career in the fast-evolving filmmaking industry.

Cinematography

The "Cinematography" specialization at UIFM seamlessly blends artistic vision with technical prowess, offering a deep dive into the art and science of visual storytelling. Starting from the essentials of digital camera operations and the aesthetics of image creation, students progress through advanced concepts like studio and natural lighting, color theory, and the emotional impact of visuals. This comprehensive program incorporates practical exercises in diverse filming environments, including documentaries and multi-camera setups, along with cutting-edge practices in VR and digital post-production. Culminating in a professional capstone project and an opportunity for an industry internship, UIFM's cinematography curriculum equips students with the creative skills, technical knowledge, and real-world experience needed to excel in the dynamic world of film and media.

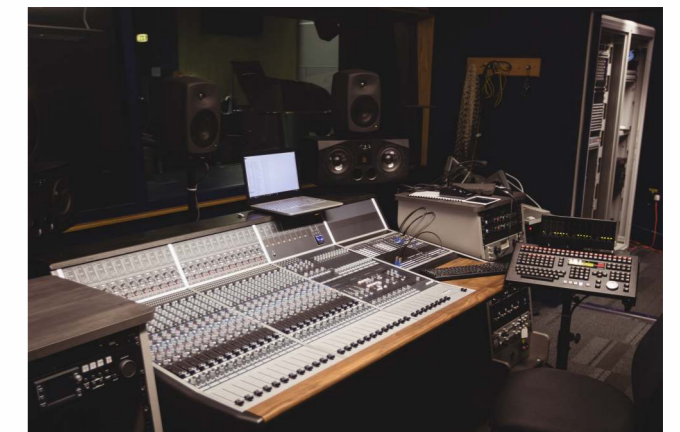

Editing

Our "Editing" specialization at UIFM is a concentrated journey into the transformative world of film editing, blending foundational editing principles with advanced storytelling techniques. Through comprehensive coursework and hands-on projects in various formats, including cutting-edge new media, students emerge with the proficiency to shape compelling narratives. This pathway concludes with a significant capstone project and professional internship, ensuring graduates possess both the creative vision and technical skill set essential for success in the fast-paced editing industry.

Acting

The "Acting" specialization course molds performers for authentic expression across film and media, blending traditional techniques like Stanislavsky's with modern on-camera skills. Through rigorous training in voice, body, and psychological insights, plus an exploration of 'Natyashastra', students prepare for diverse roles in theater, film, and digital media. This comprehensive journey includes practical experience in various filmmaking formats and culminates with a capstone project and industry internship, equipping graduates for success on any stage or screen.

Sound Recording & Design

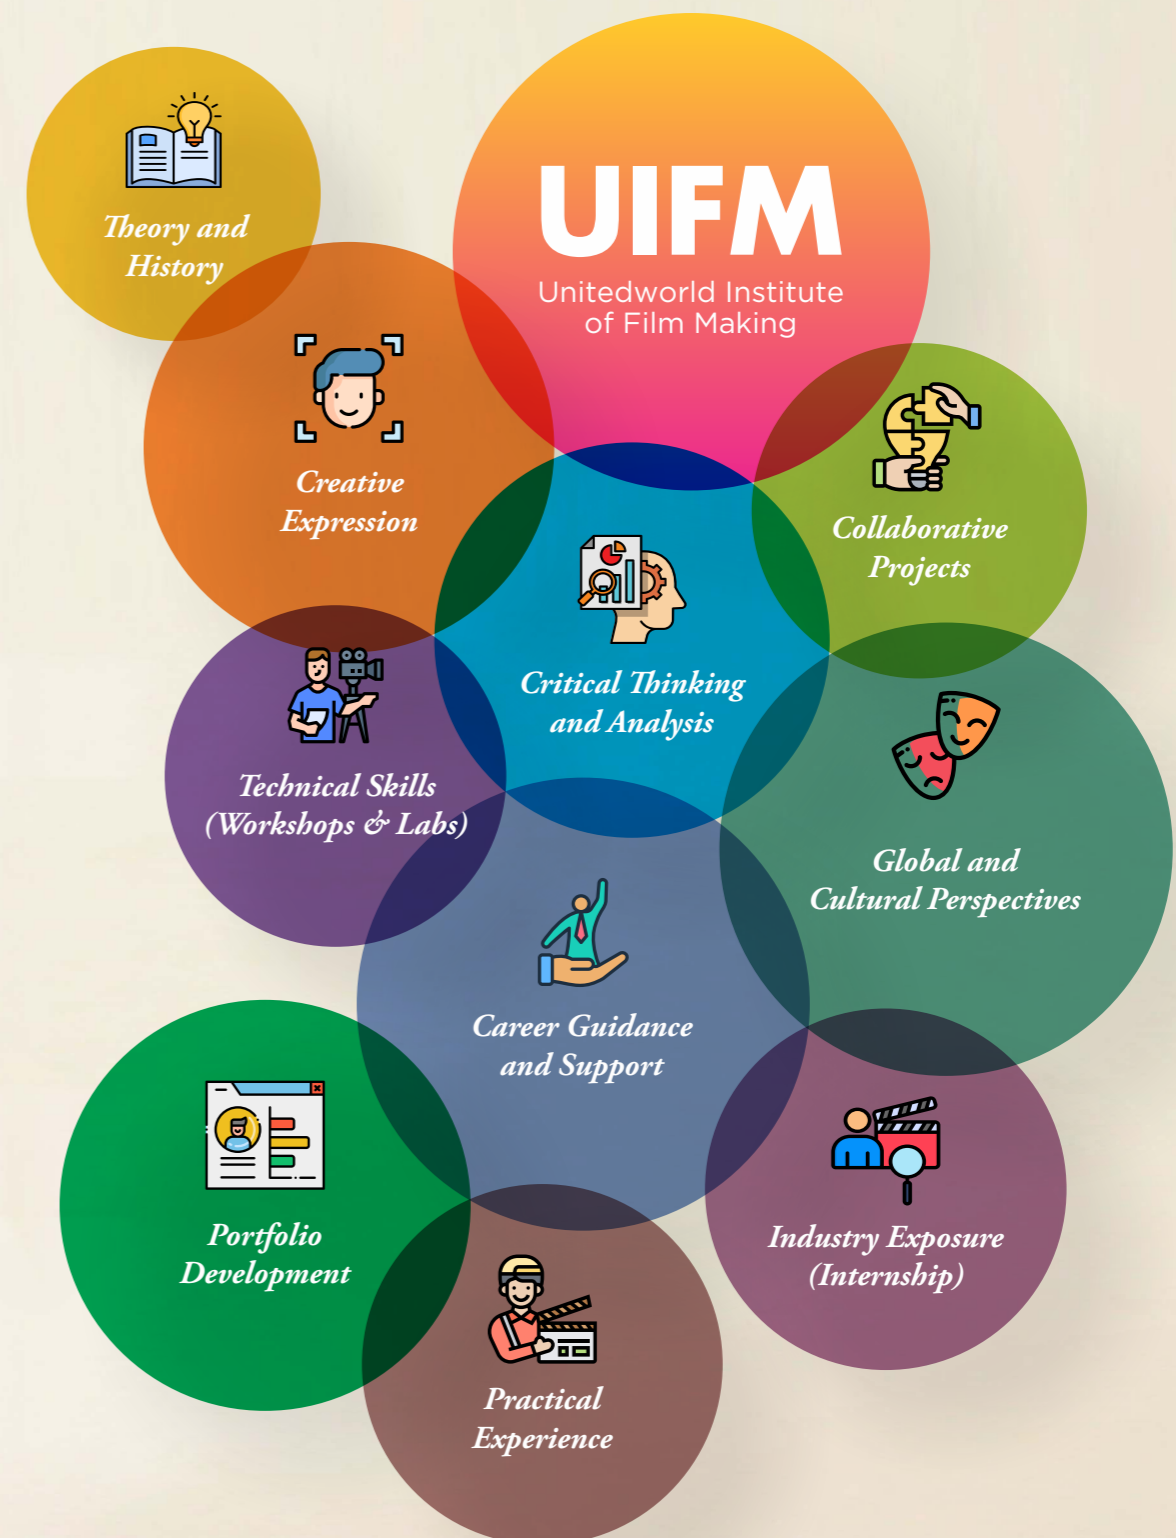

In the "Sound Recording & Designing" specialization, students navigate through comprehensive training in sound capture and creative sound design for films and media. From acoustics fundamentals to mastering digital workstations and microphones, the course progresses to advanced location recording, sound mixing, and designing sound for various genres and platforms, including AR and VR. This journey, enriched with practical experiences, a capstone project, and an industry internship, prepares students for a successful career in the ever-evolving sound industry.

Career Prospects

The film and media industry offers diverse career prospects. Opportunities include screenplay writing, acting, direction, cinematography, editing, sound recording and sound designing. Additionally, careers in film criticism, production design, animation, production management and marketing are also available. Roles in film education, film curation, media management, anchoring, and voicing also provide avenues for creative expression. With positions ranging from scriptwriters and directors to producers and actors, the industry offers a wealth of opportunities for individuals passionate about storytelling and the audio-visual arts.

Learning Model

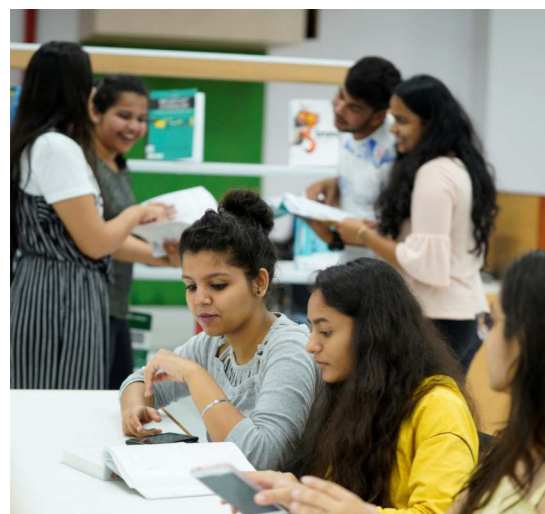

Infrastructure

Only classroom education does not suffice for a student to get holistic education. UIFM understands that and has provided the students with world class facilities, labs, and workshops.

With the help of cutting edge & state-of-the-art equipment and top-notch faculties, we provide extensive learning experience to the students' inTECHgrated design.
